HUERTA DENIES HE IS A CANDIDATE

Mexico City, Oct. 24.—In addition to hearing the lengthy statement in which General Huerta sets forth the policies of his administration, the members of the diplomatic corps, who gathered at the palace upon his invitation yesterday, heard him give his personal word that he was not a candidate for the presidency.

Further, they heard him say that should the elections next Saturday show him to have a majority of the votes, he would consider it to be his duty to instruct congress to declare all ballots void.

General Huerta gave his own version of his action in dissolving congress. He went over all of the grounds set forth in his manifesto issued after the dissolution, and added that proof that the deputies had engaged in fostering revolution had been found in their desks and upon their persons.

IMPROVED INCANDESCENT LAMPS.

In a paper presented before the Illuminating Engineering society at Pittsburg it was stated that since 1905 the strength of tungsten-lamp filaments has increased by more than 300 per cent. The greater strength permits operation at increased efficiencies at no decrease in total life. The use of chemicals in the bulbs, which has become general during the past year, has reduced the blacking of lamps to a marked degree, and it is therefore possible to operate them at efficiencies correct from the standpoint of total life with no shortening of the useful life. The use of chemicals has made possible a substantial reduction in the size of bulbs for several lamps. Decreased bulb size reduces the manufacturing cost and broadens the application of the lamp.

TRACKLESS TROLLEYS.

A speaker at the recent meeting of the Municipal Tramways association of Great Britain discussed trackless trolleys. He said that their total cost of operation under ordinary conditions was at least 20 per cent to 25 per cent less per car mile than that of motor buses, and that they were equal in flexibility to the motor buses for the ordinary roadway width, namely, thirty to thirty-five feet. Trackless trolley systems are now in use in eight different districts in England and several other undertakings are under construction.—Electric Railway Journal.
